Report it online, too

Read each scenario below and raise your hand if you'd report it in the app or service where you found it. Prepare to explain why you would or wouldn't report it and explain why you chose that option, then discuss those choices as a class.

Note: Everybody should know that there is not one right choice to make, which is why discussion is helpful. No one should feel bad about what they chose to do. Even adults don't always know when or how to report.

Situation 1	A student posts a group photo in a public account, and you hate the way you look in it. Would you report that photo or not? How can you respond?
Situation 2	Someone creates an account of a student you know using their name and photo. They turned the photo into a meme and drew a moustache and other weird facial features on it, turning the photo into a joke. Would you report the account or not?
Situation 3	Someone posts lots of mean comments about a student in your school without using their name, but you have a feeling you know who it is. Would you report those comments or not?
Situation 4	A student creates an account with your school's name in the screen name and posts students' photos with comments that everybody hears about. Some of the comments are mean to students; some are compliments. Do you report the mean comments, the whole account, or both?
Situation 5	One night, you notice that a student has made a comment online saying they're going to fight with another student in the lunchroom the next day. Do you report that comment online or not? Do you report it to a teacher or principal the next morning or not? Or both?
Situation 6	You're watching a cartoon video and all of a sudden there's some weird content in it that's definitely not appropriate for kids and makes you feel uncomfortable. Do you report it or not?
Situation 7	You're playing an online game with friends and someone none of the players know starts chatting with you. They're not being mean or anything, but you don't know them. Do you ignore them or report them?
